

Do You Get Just What You Pay For?..

There are a great many cases in which one does not, and yet there are some where you really do get just what you pay for. When you go to a drug store and ask for a GOOD Dyspepsia Tablet you want just what you mean and one that is GUARANTEED to do its work.

'Rexall' Dyspepsia Tablets

are the only ones that can possibly fill the bill because they are not only easy and pleasant to take but are active and effective and are the only dyspepsia tablets that are absolutely guaranteed to give you satisfaction.

This is only one instance. There are many different ailments, but yet the man or woman who uses the best and only guaranteed cures—"REXALL REMEDIES" is the one who in older age is spry and healthy. These famous remedies are sold and guaranteed only at

MISS PHEBE ROY.

"A perfect woman, nobly planned. To warn, to comfort and command."

Miss Phebe Roy has been a familiar figure on our streets for so many years she needs no introduction to the people of Yale, but we wish to say a few words in appreciation of her long and faithful service.

Miss Roy came to us in '88 and tells us that among her first pupils were Mrs. Ira Becker, Mrs. Maud Pollock, Mrs. Maud Locke, Mrs. Sarah Parker and Mrs. Maude Ballentine. She taught two years then resigned on account of the illness of her mother, returning, however, two years later, since which time she has taught the first grade in our public school.

The old brick building was erected in 1887 and for a year or two all grades attended there, but growth in numbers compelled them to place the first and second grades again in the old primary building which had been used for a time as a dwelling house. Here Miss Roy taught until the erection of the present school in 1904 when all were "housed" in the same building.

Her years of teaching have been during the regimes of E. S. Black, R. S. Campbell, J. Q. Rouse, J. W. Robinson, C. E. Kellogg, P. W. Wheaton, and N. J. Drouyor, and she now teaches the children of parents who themselves began school life with her, and in her heart she is as young as the children who now look to her to start their feet aright upon the pathway of knowledge.

Miss Roy has steadily advanced in her work, being always eager to adopt new methods and do anything that would make her work more efficient. She is painstaking, spending long hours in the school room, her whole motive in life seeming to be the success of her work, and how far she has succeeded may be judged from what she herself says. In recent conversation with her about present conditions and methods she said that if any one had told her twenty years ago that she could accomplish in one year what she does today she would not have believed them.

Teachers often wonder what pupils may be twenty or twenty-five years later. Miss Roy has seen what others are perhaps now wondering. Dwelling among us she has been closely associated with hundreds as they passed from childhood into manhood and womanhood. The high regard and esteem in which she is held by all is shown in the kindly memories they have of Miss Roy. She is not forgotten while others have perhaps passed from memory. Her special aim has been to make good American citizens and with cheerfulness she has devoted the best years of her life to the development of noble manhood and womanhood.

Not only would she be missed in school but in church circles as well. For years she has been a faithful and consistent worker in the church and Sunday School, regular in attendance upon church, a loyal teacher in the Sunday school, and always in demand in the preparation of exercises or entertainments that are given from time to time both in connection with the school and church. Her willingness and ability have made it seem to others an easy task to prepare drills, etc., while in reality they have meant many, many hours of tedious labor.

After the death of her mother a few years ago her father came from Capue to Yale and since then Miss Roy has not only taught but has kept house and made a home in our midst where she has written "her name by kindness, love and mercy on the hearts" of the hundreds with whom she has come in contact and will never be forgotten in the memory of those who have known her. Perhaps we can find no more fitting conclusion than the "Salutation of the Dawn," which expresses the Hope, Joy and Love with which she enters upon her daily tasks.

The Salutation of the Dawn.
Listen to the Salutation of the Dawn,
Look to this day,
For it is Life the very Life of Life,
In its brief course lie all
Varieties and Realities of your existence.
The Bliss of Growth
The Glory of Action
The Splendor of Beauty.
For yesterday is but a dream,
And tomorrow is only a vision,
But today makes every yesterday
A dream of happiness
And eases tomorrow's vision of Hope.
Look well therefore to this day,
Such is the Salutation of the Dawn.

Mrs. Andreae and Miss McDonald, Yale, Mich.

Dear Girls of old Yale!
Your kind invitation to attend the Home-Coming of the teachers and former pupils of the old school is rec'd. Thank you. Wish I could be with you, but in as much as that seems quite impossible under the present circumstances, will drop my "sober serious thought" and you may read it to the grandfathers and grandmothers whom you think it will interest.

I began teaching the Brockway Centre school Monday, Sept. 29th, 1878. That is almost thirty-five years ago. Before me had been such men as Joseph Avery and Harvey Tappan and after me came Judge Law and others equally famous. I had 153 pupils in one room, big, little, long and short, wise and otherwise.

Miss Lillia Haghel was my assistant at $15 per month. I organized the first graded school and we two taught all the grades from the first to the 12th. The second year Miss Alice Hathaway was assistant and she was such a good one, she has assisted me ever since. We were married in Yale Aug. 14th, 1881. Result:—Our eldest son who has graduated at high school, at college, at the theological seminary and attended Columbia, is pastor at Lansing. The second son, a Ph.D., is one of the instructors at Chicago University. The third son is professor of history in the Arkansas Normal. The only daughter, Miss Nellie, has graduated from high school, from college and from Chicago University, and has been teaching at Kallispell, Montana, for past three years.

I think my going to Yale must have had a wonderful effect. Shortly after I got there the railroad was put through, for then you see they needed it. Then it was necessary to build the woolen mill, for they needed it. Then we had the biggest hail storm in the history of the town, and I am sure they needed that too, though it broke almost every light of glass in the town, not even sparing the school house. I was the "mostest" of a teacher of the whole bunch. Taught the school five days regularly, a normal class Saturday afternoons, pupils preparing for college nights and the two Sunday schools on Sunday, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, beside having German pupils extra.

Have been preaching ever since I quit teaching there 33 years ago. Hope you have the very bestest time and that many old friends will be with you to help swell the crowd, make a noise and eat the "eatins'."

Very cordially your friend,
C. W. Stephenson.

RHEA HISEY ANDREA, President.
PEARL McDONALD, Secretary.

One of the most talented members of the Alumni is Mrs. Rhea Hisey Andreae, who has acted as President of the Association during the past year. Though this is her first term as president she has been a most faithful worker in the society since its organization and perhaps there is no one else who would have had the perseverance and ingenuity to have brought our Home Coming celebration to such a successful culmination. Several months ago she fixed that as her goal and began to make plans for the necessary funds. Two entertainments, one by Mrs. Helen Shafer, of Detroit, the other home talent, were given during the latter part of the winter, and netted the society something over fifty dollars so that they felt warranted in their undertaking. They wished it to be a reunion of teachers and Alumni and as a part of the day's program they wanted to do honor in some way to our most faithful teacher, Miss Phebe Roy, and as a result today they are dedicating a beautiful child picture and a bronze tablet bearing this inscription:

Erected in honor of
MISS PHEBE ROY
Our Faithful Teacher
1888—1914
Yale High School Alumni Association
June 12, 1914.

This will be placed in a prominent place in the lower hall so that all who come may see and read.

For the past three years Miss McDonald has acted as Secretary of the Alumni Association and no more worthy and proficient officer could have been chosen. So successfully has she filled the duties connected with this office that the Alumni would like to elect her to the position for life if it were not unfair that one should have so much work each year.

SENIOR CLASS DAY.

Commencement exercises were held in Central Hall Thursday evening, June 11th. Following was the program of the evening:

Music—Orchestra.
Invocation—Rev. Chas. Bragg.
Music—Orchestra.
Address—Thomas W. Nadal.
Music—Orchestra.
Presentation of Diplomas—James E. Roays.
Music—Orchestra.
Benediction—Rev. Boelyn.

The class numbers eighteen, eight boys and ten girls, the largest in the history of the school. Six of the girls hold teachers' certificates and plan to teach a year or two before going to college. The president of the class, George Beadle, has been awarded the Harvard scholarship which is given out each year by the Michigan Club and is worth $250. George intends to enter Harvard this fall. Several other members of the class are planning to continue their work in higher institutions of learning. The class as a whole has maintained a high average of scholarship during the whole four years. More than 50 per cent of the class are exceptionally strong students and will be a credit to Yale High School wherever they go.

Gathering Roses.

I've gathered roses and the like
In many glad and golden June,
But now as I look back on the life
My weary hands are filled with prunes.
I've gathered roses o'er and o'er,
And some were white and some were red,
But when I took them to the store,
The grocer wanted eggs instead.
I gathered roses long ago
In other days and other scenes,
And people said you ought to go
And dig the weeds out of your beans.
A million roses bloomed and died
A million more will die to-day
That man is wise who lets them slide
And gathers up the bales of hay.

LOVING CUP PRESENTED TO MR. DROUYOR.

The members of the Class of 1914, which numbers eighteen and is the largest in the history of the school, presented the present Superintendent, Mr. Drouyor, with a beautiful silver loving cup as a token of the honor and respect in which he is held and as an appreciation of his loyal and loving service to them during their high school life. The cup is about ten inches in height and bears the inscription, "Presented to Nelson J. Drouyor by the Class of 1914." Mr. Drouyor is justly proud of his gift and says that it will occupy the most conspicuous place that he can find for it in his home so that it may be a continual reminder of his pleasant and congenial associations with the people who are this year leaving High School.
